Letter of recommendation for New Era Languages

As a pensioner interested in languages and immigrating to South-Africa after my retirement, I felt obliged to learn another official language of South-Africa, although speaking English already, but not being my mother tongue too.

My first choice was Afrikaans because it's one of the major languages being spoken here, besides English and Zulu.

The question was how to go about it in order to get real good results quickly, but my visits to some stationery shops did not satisfy my requests, because I actually knew what I was looking for.

The language course should be something I could do on my own, preferably on my computer but with the possibility to be able to correct myself, meaning recording and listening to my learning progress as well as some exercises in writing although not the primary task.

With the Afrikaans language course from New Era Languages I found exactly what I was expecting and my results after only four months were astonishing . I can highly recommend the language courses of New Era Languages, because it's not simply learning words by heart, you really learn to form sentences by yourself, using your own available vocabulary.

I am very pleased with the results accomplished within a very short time and I'm already thinking of taking up another local language as my next target.

Thank you very much New Era Languages you make learning a new language a child's play!
